WALK BY Faith In God's Word

"But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus" (Matthew 14:27–29).

The Christian life is a walk on water. When you come to Christ and receive eternal life, you're brought into a life of walking on water. This simply means a life of walking by faith in God's Word. The inspiring account in Matthew 14:26–29 is symbolic of this awesome truth. When the disciples saw Jesus walking toward them on the waves, they were afraid.

Quickly quelling their fears, the Master told them, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid" (Matthew 14:27). Remarkably, Peter responded boldly and said, "Lord, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water" (Matthew 14:28), and Jesus said, "Come." I have often thought, "What if it hadn't been Jesus?" That would have been a dangerous gamble! But Peter wasn't gambling. He knew something about the Word of the Master; it gives you the ability to do a thing and causes you to do it.

So, acting on the Master's word, Peter stepped down out of the boat and walked on the water to meet Him.This is the life that God has called all His children to live: a life of walking with Jesus in His Word. In practicing this lifestyle of faith, one vital principle is to act on the Word.

God always lets us know that if we act on His Word, we'll see His glory. In John chapter 5, there's a remarkable account of a man at the pool of Bethesda who had been sick for 38 long years.

When Jesus saw him, He asked, "Do you want to get well?" The man began to tell him all his limitations, but Jesus gave him a simple answer: "Get up, pick up your mat, and walk" (John 5:8 GNB).

Notice that the Lord didn't touch him or do anything spectacular. He simply spoke, and the man acted on His word and was instantly healed. Understand that when Peter stepped out of that boat in Matthew 14:29, he acted in faith on the word of the Master that said, "Come." It was this word that held him up on the raging sea, in defiance of all natural laws.

Ordinarily, it's impossible for a man to walk on water, but at the Word of Jesus, Peter did! "But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid;..." (Matthew 14:30). As long as his focus was on Jesus, he didn't sink. However, the moment he shifted his gaze and attention from the Lord to the fierceness of the wind, he gave room for doubt and fear and began to sink.

There's a very instructive Scripture in Hebrews 12:2. It says, "looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith…" The original Greek rendering reads, "Looking away unto Jesus…" This means to turn away from everything else and fix your gaze on Jesus.

The second part of Hebrews 12:2 says, "…who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God." Jesus pictured the joy that was set before Him and endured the death on the cross. He didn't care what people thought about Him; the rewards of His faith were incomparable. So He went on, despising the shame.

Thus, the Bible instructs us to act like Him. Walk every day with your eyes fixed on Him. They may call you names, but don't be perturbed. As you keep your gaze on Jesus, you're sure to walk through the storms of life victorious.

HORTENSIA ROYE TESTIFIES

Scan here to watch Hortensia's testimony of healing on Healing Streams TV

She walked into the Healing Streams studio on her own feet. No wheelchair. No assistance. No pain. Standing tall, radiant, and full of gratitude, 56-year-old Hortensia Roye, from Costa Rica, appeared before the global audience as a living testimony of God's kindness. It was not her first visit to the Healing Streams, but this time, it was her moment to tell her story.

Life had not always looked this way. For years, Hortensia lived under the weight of multiple debilitating health conditions that slowly stole her strength, independence, and joy. Despite recieving medical attention and prolonged treatment, her health continued to deteriorate.

Her ordeal began in 2020. "I was at home one day when my head started aching, and my eyes became red. When I was taken to the hospital, the doctor told me that my blood pressure was very high and that I also had diabetes," Hortensia recalls.

"I was hospitalized for one month. I had to take many pills throughout the day to survive. I was completely bed-ridden. I could not stand, not even to use the restroom."

With several daily medications, she managed the conditions as best as she could, holding on to the hope that life would eventually return to normal. But the exact opposite happened. Four years later, more health challenges surfaced.

"In 2024, I had my first heart attack," she explains. "After that, the diabetes became worse. My foot grew stiff and painful, and walking became very difficult. I constantly felt pain from my waist down to my legs. I also suffered from deep, burning sensations that often felt as if my bones were on fire."

She decided to return to the hospital to find out what was really happening to her. Her doctor diagnosed her condition as sciatic nerve damage, a lung disorder, kidney failure, and pulmonary edema.

Recounting that difficult time in her life, she says, "I was hospitalized for one month. I had to take many pills throughout the day to survive. I was completely bedridden.
I could not stand up, not even to use the restroom. I could not lift my hands. I needed help to dress and for every basic need. Breathing was also difficult, so I depended on oxygen. Living like that made me very unhappy."

She was discharged with her doctor's recommendation to quit her job, as she could no longer live a normal life. She was made to understand that there was no assurance of a cure for all her conditions, only remedial treatments to ease her pain.

Soon, her right side became stiff and weak. She was unable to eat and digest her food, which caused her much discomfort after every meal.

Day after day, the pain and limitations persisted. Her mobility declined, and she became confined to a wheelchair. Then, a turning point came. Hortensia received an opportunity to participate in the Healing Streams.

Having previously served with a team of ministers who translated the program for other participants, she had witnessed the supernatural unfold in past editions. When the invitation came, she knew her moment for a miracle had come.

Brimming with expectations, Hortensia traveled from her home in Costa Rica for the Healing Streams in July 2025. During the service, she sat on the healing line in her wheelchair, worshiping God alongside many others. Then, Pastor Chris ministered to them, including Hortensia.

"When Pastor Chris came to me, he only said, 'You are healed.' Immediately, I felt God's power in my body. The Spirit of the Lord touched me. I experienced the healing grace within me. Healing came into my body," she recounts.

For the first time in years, Hortensia stood up from the wheelchair, walking, jumping, and rejoicing over her miracle. Years of pain gave way to freedom in one life-transforming moment. In October 2025, Hortensia returned for the Healing Streams to testify of her new-found life of health, strength, and joy.

"Now, I can walk. I can run and move freely. The stroke is gone. I no longer need a wheelchair. My heart is healed. My lungs are healed. I no longer have diabetes. I am completely healed, and I am very happy," she declares.

"Now, I can walk. I can run and move freely. The stroke is gone. I no longer need a wheelchair. My heart is healed. My lungs are healed. I no longer have diabetes. I am completely healed, and I am very happy," she declares.

The testimony did not end with her. Carrying the healing grace she had received, Hortensia ministered to her son, who had suffered from high blood pressure, diabetes, and a heart attack.

He had been placed on a waiting list for a heart transplant. After this encounter, his story changed. Days later, during a hospital checkup, doctors confirmed that he no longer needed a transplant. His heart was declared perfect.

In appreciation to the man of God, Hortensia says: "From the deepest part of my heart, I thank you, Pastor Chris and partners, for giving me the opportunity to participate in the Healing Streams." For more information on the Healing Streams Live Healing Services, please visit: www.healingstreams.tv

Pastor Lester was diagnosed with throat cancer. Due to this condition, he couldn't breathe or eat and relied on a feeding tube for months, losing significant weight and his voice. After six months in the hospital undergoing multiple treatments, doctors told him his condition was untreatable. While still hospitalized, he learned about the Healing Streams Live Healing Services.

"When I connected to the service, Pastor Chris was praying for the sick. I received the prayer by faith, and I knew I was healed. I was scheduled for surgery the second day. While in the theater, the doctors examined my throat and were amazed by what they found. My throat was clean with no trace of cancer. I told them the Lord healed me through the Healing Streams," he shares.

Now fully restored, Pastor Lester speaks, eats, and lives in full health. He has since become a distributor of the Healing to the Nations Magazine, sharing the

In 2014, Amgalanzaya's life changed when she suffered a stroke that left her bedridden. Later, she was also diagnosed with diabetes mellitus, and her condition worsened over the years. The stroke resulted in complete paralysis of her left arm and leg. She couldn't lift her hand, walk, or sit upright for long periods. Even eating was difficult, and she depended on her husband for nearly everything, including moving around the house and using the washroom.

After hearing about the Healing Streams Live Healing Services, she participated in faith. "As he prayed, I felt the Holy Spirit move through me, and I knew my healing had come," she says.

By the next morning, Amgalanzaya woke up feeling renewed strength surge through her body. For the first time in years, she got out of bed unaided. She began to walk, lift her hands, dance, and move freely. Eating became easy again, and life as she knew it before the sickness became real again.

A MUCH–NEEDED HEALING

In 2020, Busi Lato from South Africa found herself in one of the most challenging seasons of her life. What began as a routine surgery soon turned into a painful and frightening ordeal that tested her strength, emotions, and faith. Instead of experiencing the relief and recovery she expected, she was confronted with severe post-surgical complications that left her body weak and her future uncertain.

The doctors had warned that there would be some nausea and weakness post-operation. So Busi was unfazed by her still-fragile condition when she was discharged from the hospital two weeks later.

After returning home, however, the fatigue continued. Busi could not walk without assistance and had to be carried to the bathroom. Alarm was raised when the surgical site started secreting pus. The wound should have been on the mend, but this development meant something was amiss. When all attempts to manage the situation at home proved futile, Busi returned to the hospital. An examination showed the wound had become infected, and she was admitted once again.

Busi was hospitalized for over a month. Despite treatments, the infection persisted and pus had to be drained from the wound at regular intervals. The doctors could not explain what was happening, and the prolonged pain and uncertainty left her physically and emotionally drained. One Saturday, Busi received a call that would change everything. Her pastor had heard of her condition and was visiting that day.

When Pastor Mabenzana later arrived at the hospital, she brought a copy of the Healing to the Nations Magazine with her. Without wasting time, she placed the magazine on the affected area of Busi's stomach, laid her hands on her, and prayed fervently. In that moment, God's power was released and a supernatural intervention happened. The infection that had ravaged Busi's body for nearly two months died instantly, and the results were immediate. By the next day, the pus had dried up, and the wound began to heal, to the amazement of the medical staff. Within a few days, she was discharged from the hospital, this time, with the wound healed and her health and strength completely restored. This marked the end of a distressing episode in Busi's life. She was healed and free.

6 Rea-
YOUR BODY LOVES OUTDOOR MOVEMENT

Scan here to watch health documentaries on Healing Streams TV

Exercising in the fresh air is not just good for your body. It is a quiet way to strengthen your defenses. Whether it is a brisk morning walk, a jog in the park, a short cycling session, or a few stretches under the open sky, intentional outdoor exercise engages the body in ways that go far beyond fitness.

These simple, purposeful movements help the heart, muscles, and mind while quietly giving the immune system a boost that keeps the body resilient over time.

Outdoor exercise combines physical activity with fresh air, sunlight, and a change of scenery, creating a natural environment where the body can thrive.

Over time, these small, regular habits improve circulation, regulate stress, reduce inflammation, and enhance sleep, all of which contribute to a stronger, healthier immune system.

Boosts Immune Cell Circulation

Movement gets the body flowing, and that includes immune cells. When you exercise outdoors, blood circulates more efficiently, and the lymphatic system becomes more active.

This allows immune cells to travel quickly to where they are needed and helps the body detect and respond to potential threats. Even a short daily walk keeps this system active. With regular outdoor exercise, the immune system becomes sharper, more alert, and ready to respond when the need arises.

Reduces Stress Hormones

Stress quietly taxes the body, affecting more than just your mood. Outdoor exercise lowers stress hormone levels and encourages relaxation. Natural surroundings such as trees, sunlight, and open spaces enhance this calming effect. As tension fades, the immune system can function without suppression, allowing the body to defend itself more effectively. Many people notice they feel lighter, calmer, and more energized after spending time moving outside.

Controls Inflammation

Inflammation is a normal part of the body's defense, but too much can be harmful. Moderate outdoor exercise signals the body to regulate inflammation, preventing it from becoming excessive. Balanced inflammatory responses keep the immune system functioning efficiently, ready to respond when it is needed most, without overreacting or becoming fatigued. This simple mechanism explains why consistent movement outdoors reduces susceptibility to illness over time.

Increases Vitamin D Levels

One clear advantage of outdoor exercise is sunlight exposure. Sunlight triggers vitamin D production, which plays a key role in immune activity. Vitamin D helps immune cells activate and coordinate defenses against infections. By exercising outdoors consistently, even for short periods, the body naturally maintains healthier vitamin D levels without relying solely on supplements.

Improves Sleep Quality

Better sleep is essential for immune recovery, and outdoor exercise helps regulate the body's internal clock. Physical activity releases tension built up during the day, while natural light signals when it is time to rest. Deeper, more restorative sleep allows the immune system to repair, regenerate, and prepare for the next day, creating a cycle that supports long-term health and energy.

Builds Long-Term Immune Resilience

Consistency matters more than intensity. Outdoor exercise encourages routines that are easy to maintain, such as morning walks, evening stretches, weekend hikes, or casual cycling.

Moderate, regular activity gradually strengthens the immune system, making the body more resilient to everyday challenges. Over time, this approach helps the body respond efficiently to illness while supporting overall health and vitality.

Outdoor exercise does not require special equipment or strict schedules. The key is intention and consistency. By incorporating outdoor movement into your daily life, you give your body a natural and effective way to stay strong and balanced. Over time, these small steps add up, creating a healthier, more resilient body ready to meet life's demands.

Faith's Proclamations Of Healing & Health

"...these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues. They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover" (Mark 16:17-18).

There is power in the Name of Jesus. His Name gives us absolute mastery over the devil and over all sickness and infirmity. What God's people need is to understand the power behind the Name and how to apply it. You can begin today to make demands in the Name of Jesus.

Talk to your body and tell it how you want it to function; it will comply! Remember that Jesus spoke to a tree, to the winds and the waves, and even to corpses, proving that everything God made has intelligence. Your body and the circumstances around you have intelligence, so speak to them today in the Name of Jesus!

The truth is that many sicknesses that people suffer from are caused by demons. If you've been suffering from a condition that has defied medical science, refuse to let it linger. You can and ought to cast that devil out in the Name of Jesus.

CONFESSIONS

The Word is working mightily in me! The Spirit of Him that raised Jesus Christ from the dead dwells in me and vitalizes my body. Health, strength, victory, and prosperity are mine now by the power in the Name of our Lord Jesus.

I live in Zion. Therefore, sickness is far from me. My members are yielded to God as instruments of righteousness. Sin and sickness have no dominion over my body. My atmosphere is the manifest presence of the Holy Ghost. I live in perfect health always.

My body is the temple of the living God. Therefore, only divine health is permitted to function in my body. No sickness, disease, or infirmity can thrive in my body because the Spirit of God who lives in me gives life to my body and rejuvenates it day by day.

I am born of the incorruptible Word of God that lives and abides forever. That same Word is life and health to my flesh. The Word of God vitalizes my body and keeps it in perfect condition always. Hallelujah!

I am a new creation in Christ Jesus; I am superior to all forms of sicknesses and diseases. Divinity is at work in me; therefore, I do not get sick because I have the life and nature of God in me.

I'm the righteousness of God in Christ Jesus. I'm dead to this world but alive to God.

Sin, sickness, and death have no power over me. I rule and reign in life. I dwell in Christ, seated with Him far above all principalities, power, might, and dominion. Glory to God!

I do not live by blood. I live by the Word of God. As the Word is incorruptible, so is my body. My body is unbreakable.

The Word of God grows in my spirit, producing wellness for my body and soundness of mind. Every part of me remains alive and in perfect shape.

The Word of God is my life. I am free from sickness, and I will not be overtaken by feelings of pain and discomfort, because God's Word is working mightily in my body. I speak the Word and it works in my body, making it alive every day.

I am an embodiment of God's goodness. Health and the good life are my inheritance in Christ Jesus. I have taken possession of this inheritance and I flourish like the palm tree, ever fresh and evergreen. I'm nourished daily by the Word of God.

Whatsoever is born of God overcomes the world! I am born of God; therefore, I have overcome the world. I have overcome sickness and death because they are of the world! I hail from God, and as He is invincible and indestructible, so am I in this world. Hallelujah!
